About Goepfert Speech Associates:

This is a Private Practice (Sole Proprietorship) with certified and licensed speech and language pathologists who provide a wide range of diagnostic and therapeutic services to adults and children of all ages. Services include diagnostic evaluation, therapy, training and consultation/counseling. Treatment is provided to remedy disorders of articulation (including apraxia and phonologic disorders), language comprehension and expression, auditory/language processing, speech fluency (stuttering), voice, cognitive-linguistic skills and communication difficulties associated with Autism/PDD. Parent/family training and counseling in speech and language intervention is also provided. Transgender voice training and accent modification are also available.

The office, located in Hershey, is handicap accessible with limited public transportation (taxi and bus). Limited home and community based services are provided pending scheduling availability. Current contracts also include Keystone Autism Services, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, and Connections Academy (cyber-school).

Evaluations and treatment may be initiated by self-referral, outside or doctor referrals. The primary admission criteria for treatment includes a significant delay or deviation (below one standard deviation on a standardized measure) in communication skills (articulation, language, auditory processing, voice, stuttering, pragmatics, etc.). Achievement of age-level skills or functional levels would be appropriate discharge criteria. Our mission is to enhance communication.

Consumers served comprise a wide range of ages including children from birth through adulthood, of any gender. English is the primary language of service with limited sign language and Spanish language proficiency. Geographic areas typically served include Dauphin County (primarily Hershey, Hummelstown, and Harrisburg), Cumberland County, Lebanon County (primarily Palmyra and Annville) and western Lancaster County.
